IC3 Movie Policy
January 2007

It is not common practice for movies to be shown at IC3. There is a tradition, that on pajama day, viewing a movie is one of the activities of the day. Movies, videos, and other video productions have been used to enhance a lesson and/or provide the children an experience or information that can not be obtained otherwise (viewing a volcano eruption).

IC3 policy on viewing feature films is that the film be rated G for children under 5 years of age and PG for the children attending IC3 School Age Program. A strong suggestion is that books on video and/or educational programming (Ex: Sesame Street) be viewed instead of a feature film.

Whenever a video is being shown, an engaging, alternate activity will be provided for those children who choose not to watch the video and/or whose parents choose not to have their child view the video.

All feature films shown to children must have a rating printed on the movie itself or on the movie jacket. All video shown to children must be previewed by IC3 teaching staff before being viewed by the children.
